The CZ SP-01 Shadow is a historic feat of firearms craftsmanship, especially in the realm of competitive target shooting. Its design is based on the classic Model 75 which, even in 1975, was a highly regarded and demanded pistol in the United States and Europe for its elegant and ergonomic design, large magazine capacity and smooth operation. It was the design of this pistol that really brought CZ pistols to the fore.

The design of the CZ M75 was inspired by the Browning High Power pistol, but was significantly improved from its design template. Originally, the M75 was intended for the Czech police. It was smaller and lighter than a traditional M1911, with a slide that fitted into the receiver for smoother cocking and sturdier construction.

The SP-01 reinvented the M75 into a high performance competition pistol. The SP-01 Shadow is one of the most famous competition pistols and it is the origin of the CZ Shadow line. With this exceptional line of pistols, CZ has delivered a unique shooting package that offers everything a competitive shooter could hope for right out of the box. With its lightweight metal carcass, ergonomic handle and ambidextrous safety, the Shadow stand out for their IPSC dominance. The SP-01 Shadow was not only the gun that started this triumphant tradition, it remains a firearm legend to this day.
